

Thread and Embroidery Colors

Amaril's production team works to select the best thread color for your garment logo, whether that be black or white thread. Our production team is trained to follow the metric below when selecting black or white for your name and company letters on apparel in combination with additional colors your logo graphic may have.

Variance:

- Plaid shirts are incredibly challenging and generally have one main color that falls light or dark. That color is the deciding factor. Please note, based on your company logo (size, design and color) our production team may vary black or white to ensure the garment logo is visible.
- Hi-visibility yellow apparel generally receives black thread.
- Brown duck outerwear garments generally receive black thread.
- Please note lines below on color chart.
